The D.B.'s are a unique group of young women who are characterized by a high level of intelligence and a propensity for acting in a peculiar manner. These "interesting" things that they say or do can be referred to as D.B.ishness.

Although the number of D.B.ishness that these young ladies have performed are far too numerous to list here and since they all continue to expound the standards of D.B.ishness (I have no doubt that they will devote their lives to these efforts), I will list just a few examples:

1. Asking the question: "When is next year?"
2. Falling into the bushes while getting out of a car.
3. Sticking a finger into a "curious" hole in a table and getting it stuck.
4. Walking into poles.

I wish to thank my D.B. espionage unit for their efforts in keeping me informed of the D.B.'s D.B.ishness and for nominating new candidates. Of course, in order for someone to qualify for such a distinguished title, they must meet some extreme standards of D.B.ness. Those that have qualified are real doozers.

I would like to thank my D.B. photographer, Jon Linthacum, for his devotion and hard work at catching these ladies as they really are!

To Leslie Jacobsen, Leslie Levine, and Karol Kelly, I congratulate you on being the first D.B.'s in history to graduate from high school. I will miss having you around next year. It has been a real pleasure knowing you and I hope our friendship will continue. I look forward to seeing the rest next year as you continue to make my life and those around you so enjoyable with your hilarious activities.

My best wishes to you all, and to the class of 1981,

Jay D. Sanders
